What is Claimed is:

- 1. A method of establishing an audio-video conference, comprising the following steps:
 - a) holding an audio-only conference;
 - b) displaying static visual images during the audio-only conference; and
 - c) holding an audio conference accompanied by a live video conference.

10

5

- 2. A method of establishing an audio-video conference, comprising the following steps:
 - a) setting up an audio-video conference on a high-bandwidth communication channel;
- b) during the setting-up step, holding an audio conference using a POTS channel; and
 - c) after setting up completes
 - i) holding the audio-video conference on the high-bandwidth channel; and

20

ii) terminating the audio conference on the POTS channel.

- 3. An apparatus, comprising:
- a) a computer-readable storage medium;
- b) software means, physically configured in the storage medium, for:

5

- i) receiving image data from a remote location and displaying a static image, based on the data;
- ii) holding an initial audio conference with a remote communication device during display of the static image;

10

- iii) holding a sequel to the audio conference with said remote device; and
- iv) holding a video conference with said remote device during the sequel.
- 4. Apparatus according to claim 3, wherein the initial audio conference is held using POTS lines, and the sequel is held using a high-bandwidth channel.